

The Pulse defines fish based hybrids. Width in the tail to keep it loose, added width and lower entry in the nose to get in early and a full, a round fishy planshape that provides buoyancy for paddle power and early entry. The Pulse features a tri/quad fin option so that you can tune to your personal taste for the day no matter the conditions.

The thickness profile hides added volume under the chest and this helps to maintain speed through flat sections. The real advantage is how well this board performs as the surf comes up. While loose when you want it, the planshape is straighter in the tail and that allows the board excellent grip in bigger waves.

The Pulse is hands down the most versatile board in the Webber range.
